

To: All Members of the International Science Council (ISC)

Dear ISC Member,

The ISC continues to collect statements on the conflict in Ukraine, and resources to assist our community that are available at the following link: <https://council.science/current/news/statements-international-scientific-community-conflict-ukraine/>

Please find below additional updates from the International Science Council and the ISC community.

1. ISC President, Peter Gluckman, article in Nature: "Together we must help refugees thrive"

For ISC Members and your networks

"Countries could coordinate to adapt current research institutes or set up new ones to incorporate refugee scientists", says ISC President, Peter Gluckman, in the latest edition of Nature. Read "Together we must help refugees thrive" article.

2. Join the launch of the Science in Exile Declaration on 20 April

For ISC Members and your networks

On 20 April 2022, the Science in Exile initiative will launch a Declaration, 'Supporting at-risk, displaced and refugee scientists: A call to action', which outlines key commitments necessary at global level for both immediate and long-term support and protection to scholars and scientists.

During this online event, internationally renowned advocates for science and peace, displaced scientists and organizations supporting at-risk, displaced and refugee scholars will present the Science in Exile Declaration and discuss its six Articles of Commitment.

Register here and please share with your networks: <https://council.science/events/science-in-exile-declaration-launch/>

3. Webinar: Understanding and Addressing the Pandemic – Insights from Anthropology

For ISC Members and your networks

The ISC presents its fifth webinar in a six-part series on COVID and the Social Sciences, Understanding and Addressing the Pandemic: Insights from Anthropology. The final episode in the series will cover Statistics.

This webinar will address the following two questions:

- How has Anthropology provided useful insights into thinking about the pandemic and in formulating responses to the pandemic?
- How has the pandemic impacted on developments within Anthropology and on the changing relationship of Anthropology to other disciplines?

Register here and share with your networks: <https://council.science/events/pandemic-anthropology/>

4. Science as a Global Public Good now available in seven languages

For ISC Members and your networks

The position paper, which develops the ISC's vision of science as a global public good, expands on the implications of that vision for how science is conducted and used, and on the roles that it plays in society.

It is now available in seven languages, and volunteer translators for other languages are sought to further promote science as a global public good across the world. Please visit for more information, and share with your networks: <https://council.science/publications/science-as-a-global-public-good/>

5. Knowledge sharing session with Members on key ISC activities with UN events 25 and 26 April

For ISC Members and your networks

There will be a Zoom Meet for Members to discuss ISC initiatives and to provide feedback on:

- Stockholm +50 and a profile-raising campaign for Members and the commemoration of the 1972 meeting

- High Level Political Forum and its theme "Building back better from the coronavirus disease (COVID-19) while advancing the full implementation of the 2030 Agenda for Sustainable Development"

For now, please put a place holder in your diaries for Monday 25 April 16:00 CEST (14:00 UTC) or Tuesday 26 April 09:00 CEST (07:00 UTC) depending on your preferred time zone. We will share a registration link in the next Members' Update.

6. GEO Week 2022, Expression of interest for Side Events and Exhibition
